(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Jan. 20.—In firm, decisive tones, Justice of the Peace James J. Westwood
today proclaimed from the witness stand in criminal court he was innocent of the charge that he murdered his wife, Martha,
last July as she lay asleep.

Giving a detailed description of his movements last July 10, the night his wife was murdered, Westwood denied the commonwealth charge that he left a gay roadhouse party long enough to have fired three bullets into her body.

Denies Leaving Roadhouse
A loud "no," emphasized by a movement of his head, was his answer to the testimony of his "party girl" friend, Peg Moran Bellmas, that he was gone from the roadhouse almost a half hour. During that time, the commonwealth charges, he drove to his home in the McKees Rocks "bottoms," crept up the back stairs to the second floor bedroom and slew his wife.
Westwood appeared calm but ful-

PA NEW OBSERVES

Cascade Park is picturesque with its blanket of snow, which is quite deep this morning. It comes up to the knee in many places, and makes walking difficult as no paths are cut through. This year, coasting and ice skating have proven popular at the park, kiddies taking their sleds to the "summertime playground" soon as they get home from school, and dart down over the hill, that is known as the mid-way. No traffic to interfere with their fun at Cascade.

It is reported that the caution light at the foot of the State street hill does not appear to be working correctly. It is continually going on and off with a static effect. This light was placed here about two months ago and has proved to be very useful to motorists.

Amish covered wagons are now going modern. A number were seen in town recently with electric head and tail lights.

Travelers making the jaunt to Cleveland, O., Sunday, from New Castle, apparently went away from the heaviest part of the snowstorm, in splendid condition, and no difficulties were encountered by any of the drivers seen along the way, due to snow drifts or dangerous roads.
They clipped along at the usual rate of speed, making good time. The immediate vicinity seemed to get the greater part of the snowstorm, from all appearances.

Yesterday's snowfall was the heaviest of the winter, the figures of B.

Plan For Reenactment Of Processing Taxes Will Meet Opposition

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—As high AAA officials today disclosed a plan for reenactment of the outlawed processing taxes as general excises, spokesmen for New England and other industrial regions served notice of a fight against the proposal.
The possibility of a "city bloc"
being formed to oppose the taxes which were attacked in industrial regions as the cause of a sharp rise in living costs, was seen.
May Lower Income Tax Exemptions

A general manufacturers' sales tax or lowering of exceptions on income taxes may be proposed as alternatives to reenactment of the processing taxes.
The new temporary soil conservation program, it is estimated, will cost between $300,000,000 and $500,- 000,000 a year. Under it benefits similar to those paid under the AAA will flow to farmers in the form of leases on land and payment for soil conservation work.

gram in congress refused to discuss

Legion Members Battle Snow In Trip On Sunday

New Castle Delegates Have Memorable Trip Home
From Harrisburg

Drifts as high as the windows on the car, gusts of snow beating against the windshield and a 12-hour fight with the elements marked the trip from Harrisburg on Sunday when a group of legionnaires returned from the annual membership roundup.
Leaving there at 10:30 o'clock on Sunday morning, it took them until 10:30 Sunday night to get to New Castle. Today the driving conditions were worse and reports this morning from Ebensburg were that the road between there and Indiana was closed to traffic because of drifts.

In the group was Judge W. Walter Braham, Guy J. Wadlinger and Alderman James C. Brice. The trip was a thriller for the men and as it seems today they were fortunate in getting through at all.
New Castle placed as 12th high in the entire state in the Legion membership roundup. Over 300 members were turned in to the state department.

First Memorial For Troop Takes Place On Sunday

Dr. C. H. Heaton Delivers
Sermon At First Baptist Church Last Evening

HONOR MEMORY OF DECEASED ONES

First memorial services for the deceased veterans of Troop F, 103rd Cavalry, PNG, took place Sunday evening in the First Baptist church.
The pastor, Dr. C. H. Heaton, who served during the World war as chaplain of the 40th Field Artillery, with the rank of first lieutenant,
delivered the address.
As a preface to his remarks, he recited the following brief history of the organization:
"The first white settlers in Lawrence county were mostly veterans of the Revolutionary war (1775-1783) or their near descendants.
Their farms had been awarded to them by the colonies for services in the army—land being a sort of soldier's bonus. So our history began in the fortunes—or misfortunes
—of war.
"In the war of 1812 Lawrence county contributed more than its share to the soldiers who fought on the shores of Lake Erie and Ontario.
"In the Civil war when our county boosted of only 15,000 people we gave 4,000 to the service of the Union.
"For the Spanish American war
we organized the Col. Oscar L. Jackson camp, Sons of Veterans, under the command of Capt. Joseph V.
Cunningham, with Wm. H. Dunlap
as 1st Lt. and J. W. Cook as 2nd Lt. These officers with 106 enlisted men made up Co. "B" 16th Regiment of Volunteer Infantry.

It was May 11, 1904 when Troop

Retired Warrant Officer Is Found Dead In His Bed

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Patrick McGunigal, 59, a retired warrant officer in the U. S. Navy and the holder of the congressional medal of honor and the Italian cross for bravery was found dead aboard a fishing boat moored at Lake Mon-tauk, near Montauk, L. I. Death was attributed to a heart attack.
McGunigal, a partner in a general store here, had entertained a party of friends at dinner aboard the boat. His guests went aboard another boat, moored nearby. When they did not notice McGunigal moving about, one of the party went aboard the other boat and found the man dead in bed.
The former sailor came to Mon-

Oil Sanctions Are Not Likely

Sanctions Committee Of

On Oil Embargo

GENEVA, Jan. 20.—Early convoation of the sanctions committee of 18 to adopt further coercive measures against Italy was predicted as the league of nations council gathered today for its 90th session, but there appeared to be little likelihood of an oil embargo.
The excuse used in Geneva for deferring oil sanctions is still that the attitude of the United States is uncertain.
Another factor forbidding resolute action by the council is the fact that Premier Pierre Laval of France is expected to resign his Paris post this week, due to loss of the radical-socialists support.
Many other problems besides Ethiopia's request for an investigation of Italy's war methods face the council. One of the chief questions is Soviet Russia's protest against Uruguay's breaking off diplomatic relations.

HERD OF CATTLE SAVED FROM BLAZE

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a large bank barn on the Rex Shadick farm, on the Har-lanburg-New Wilmington road, in Scott township, Saturday evening about 8:30. The loss, which will amount to around $3,000, is partly covered by insurance, it is stated.
Twenty head of cattle and some farm machinery were saved by Mr.
Shadick, but most of the season's crops, harness and small implements were destroyed by the blaze, which attracted many from the Harlanburg district.
The fire started in the upper portion of the barn and in a short time, the structure was a seething mass of flames.
The farm was formerly owned by T. C. Post, of New Castle, having been built only a few years ago, and the loss to Mr. Shadick is a severe one, coming at this particular season of the year.

SANDRINGHAM, Eng., Jan.

is diminishing, an official bulletin stated late today.
Issued after the king had delegated his power as sovereign to Queen Mary and his four sons,
the bulletin said:
"The condition of the king shows diminishing strength."

SANDRINGHAM, Eng.,
Jan. 20.—Carefully propped up on pillows in his sick-bed in Sandringham house, his condition virtually unchanged overnight, King George today solemnly delegated to Queen Mary and his four sons his powers as sovereign over 450,000,000 subjects.
Too ill to reign himself, the monarch created a council of state composed of the five members of the royal family which will administer his state duties during his present grave illness.

All-Royal Council.
Creation of an all-royal council surprised all England, which had confidently expected the prime min-

president of the council, Ramsay
MacDonald, and the lord chancellor, Viscount Hailsham, also would be included. Such men were named to the council of state created in 1928 when the king was similarly ill and in danger of dying.

The queen, the Prince of Wales and the Dukes of York, Gloucester and Kent will have virtually full sovereign power, the only notable exceptions being the conferring of honors and the summoning of dissolution of parliament.

at his home at 115 East Grant

six months being continually worse.
It is doubtful if there is a man or woman in Lawrence county who did not know Ralph M. Campbell. In his lifetime he compiled a record

Entire Highway Crew Fights To Keep Roads Open

Worst Storm Of Winter Keeps Force On Jump To Keep Traffic Moving

SHIFTING WINDS CAUSE BIG DRIFTS

Every available man on the maintenance force of the State Highway Department in Lawrence county, manning thirteen snow plows and trucks, was called into action Sunday, when the worst snowstorm of the season struck the city early in the morning.
After a few hours, wind began to whip the snow into the cuts and low places on the roads, and the crews were called into action by Highway Superintendent John B.
Shaw.

After battling throughout the greater part of the day, Mr. Shaw stated today, they were able to get all the state roads open, but there are a number of secondary roads which were still closed this morning by snow drifts, and which will be cleared as fast as the highway crews can get to them.

After a lapse of several weeks
winter struck again in all its fury,
and the day was one of the worst experienced in years. The heaviest fall of snow of the winter season was noted, and this was accompanied by winds which mounted to near gale proportions at times, but which subsided later in the evening.

State Emerging From Paralyzing Grip Of Blizzard

Heavy Snow Drifts Impede
Traffic In Many Parts
Of State

FOOT OF SNOW IS RECORDED IN DAY

Many Motorists Marooned
In Drifted Highways
During Sunday

(International News Service)
After hours of battling against the snow, Pennsylvania today was slowly emerging from the paralyzing grip of one of the worst blizzards in recent years.
Winds which drifted the snow almost as soon as it was cleared, for hours balked efforts of state and city highway crews to clear streets and roads.

Hours after the storm struck Pennsylvania, many main traffic arteries were impassable, scores of automobiles were marooned in the high snow in the mountains, and motor traffic was moving under severe handicaps in many sections.
Temperatures fell to 18 in Philadelphia, 20 in Harrisburg and nine above zero at the airport in Pittsburgh.

Foot Of Snow
The actual fall of snow was measured at 12 inches in Pittsburgh, 14 inches in Harrisburg and at the same levels in many other sections of the state but these figures were meaningless under the work of the wind which left drifts of several feet in the mountain sections and even in the residential districts of the cities.

Trains were as much as one to two hours behind and bus schedules were canceled in all sections of the Large Force Works At Snow Removal

Street Department Directs
Work — City Employees
Work All Night

During council meeting at the city building today Streets Director B. F.
Butler reported that four non-city strucks were rented Sunday so that snow could be hauled from streets
when informed council that the department should be in two and possibly three old trucks for two new trucks. He declared that all excepting one truck were old and unfit for service. Council instructed Butler to present a recommendation to the council at the Wednesday meeting.
City employees, assisted by some
from the WPA yesterday, shoveled snow from the streets. The city employees worked all night. The WPA workers quit at midnight. Today it was reported approximately 200 WPA employees were taken from other projects and aided in the snow removal in the city.

rather busy shoveling through a pile of snow. For its piled up in the drive way and its mounted on the stricted where two cars are apt to meet. But we're handling it quite nicely, as we've handle it before, so

NEW YORK BATTLES SNOW

Thousands At Work On Streets

Traffic Is Badly Hampered By Heavy Snow In Metropolis

EIGHT PERSONS STORM VICTIMS

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Metropolitan New York strove desperately today to dig itself out of anywhere from 6 to 12 inches of ice-banked snow after one of the most severe visitations of winter in many years. A weird combination of sleet, snow, fog and howling nor'easter gale and lightning over the week-end, a survey today showed, brought death to at least eight persons, and greatly retarded rail, motor and water traffic in and out of the city. Airplane traffic was paralyzed. At dawn this morning, 50,000 emergency workers were busy clearing the streets of the greater city, but their efforts were greatly handicapped by falling temperatures. The official forecast for today was clear and cold with the mercury hovering in the neighborhood of ten degrees above zero.

state. In Pittsburgh, snow piled on the hills forced the cancellation of city bus schedules. Edward N. Jones, state WPA director, ordered all WPA districts to put men on their rolls to work at snow removal, augmenting the regular municipal forces. The Wilson liner City of Camden was blown off its course onto a stone jetty near the Pennsylvania, N. J., but all 70 passengers were safely removed by ferries. Shipping in the Philadelphia district was crippled by the blizzard. Three were killed in automobile crashes in that district.

Snow Removal Costly

The snow piled up costs of thousands of dollars for its removal, but at the same time brought temporary work for the unemployed. Relief centers in the urban sections were crowded by homeless men seeking food and shelter. Several thousand miners in the upper Ohio Valley were deprived of work when the drifted snow made its removal by truck impossible and kept the men from work.

State highway crews utilizing all their equipment battled the drifts on main highways. City and county crews were also on the job all over the state.

Several outlying communities in Cambria county were reported isolated by the heavy snow which attained depths of two feet in some drifts. Blinding snow was blamed for several Cambria Co. traffic accidents in one of which a fire department pumper crashed into a sedan in Johnstown while speeding through the storm to answer an alarm. The machine was demolished but all escaped injury. Wheeling, West Virginia and its suburbs where an even foot of snow fell, according to government observers, were isolated for several hours. Traffic was demoralized and scores of snow plows were ordered into operation in the Northern panhandle district.

Several traffic accidents in Mercer county were blamed on the heavy snow.

Heavy Snow In Mountains

More than a foot of snow fell in the mountain sections of Fayette County. Motor bus service was demoralized as the vehicles battled through heavy drifts.

Buses struggled through the snow as best they could in the daylight but at night were in most cases ordered to stop at the nearest communities where food and lodging could be obtained for the passengers. "Roads are impassable" the dispatches announced.

Railroad sent out their snow plows flanges and blowers to keep the right of way open. All available men were also ordered out. Air traffic was virtually at a standstill throughout the state although two flights originating in Pittsburgh for the west left on schedule.

Continued cold was forecast for today in the state but a slow warming up was expected for tomorrow. The thermometer tumbled to 10 degrees above zero as drifting snows in the Punxsutawney area paralyzed traffic in one of the worst storms in the history of this section.

Automobiles were marooned along the highways and owners were unable to remove them from garages. At Ringgold, a highway snow plow stuck in a drift. Huge drifts made the Indiana-Punxsutawney road impassable. One-day traffic was enforced for 14 miles on the McGees Mills-Punxsutawney highway, and all streets in Punxsutawney were blocked with the exception of the main highway, which was cleared by plows.

Bus and train schedules were near normal today as railroad and highway plows struggled through the night clearing huge billows of drifting snows in the Kane sector where a 12 hour blizzard sent the mercury down to six above zero.

Practically all traffic was halted yesterday, as snow swirled by a fierce wind made vision almost impossible. Drifts were so deep on Route 6, the New York-Chicago highway, that two plows were run together.

With the driving wind subsiding highway workers were ready to abandon the Herculean task of battling mother nature, as a rotary plow was on its way to keep the highways open because ordinary plows were not sufficient.

ASK PROJECTS FOR WEST SIDE

State street. Providing cost of securing the right of way is prohibitive, the alternate route suggested would be along street at Robinson street, north to State street. This route, it was pointed out, would make a quick route and easier run for the fire department apparatus to "Ryantown". Cost of project, in labor, $15,000 or $20,000.

Fill on West North street extension, from Robinson street westward across Crawford hollow for a distance of about 600 lineal feet. Cost of project in labor, $15,000.

Grading of a 16 foot alley west of Bluff street from Etna street to the Borough line.

Establishment of a playground north of Shenango pottery. It was pointed out the city's playground was sold to the Shenango pottery for $1,000 and the city was to pay the Shenango pottery $1,000 for a plot to be devoted to playground purposes. This deal never was completed, the communication pointed out.

Construction of a footbridge across the Shenango river. The communication stated that this project would be the only one among those suggested that would cost considerable money.

The communication was signed by John J. Oberleitner, V. R. Evans, T. A. Alsopp, W. H. Rogan and R. B. Cranston.

culture, reveal. A total of four and one-tenth inches fell between 6 o'clock Sunday morning and midnight.

Snow sweeper of the traction company was kept busy the entire day Sunday to keep the street car lines open for operation of cars. The snow drifted and covered the right of way almost as fast as it could be swept off.

Pa Newsc saw a couple of youths taking advantage of the heavy snow and drifts of yesterday to use skills. They were having a great time.

Most pedestrians were obliged to take to the curbs of residence streets yesterday. Sidewalks were drifted over almost as fast as they could be cleared off. New Castle hasn't seen a storm like that of yesterday for a long time.

Downtown snow plows were in operation this morning and the snow was being hauled off the streets, under direction of the New Castle street department. After the plows made the trip over the streets, snow was piled in the gutters a couple of feet high.

Pass the orchids to the street department. At 6 o'clock Sunday night the crews were out shoveling snow from the streets and they worked until midnight. Early today they were out again and despite the heavy snow the downtown streets are passable. Today the city forces were augmented by WPA workers.

Spring is right around the corner if the appearance of robins means anything. Victor Ross of 423 East Lutton street told young Pa Newsc that he observed two robins perched on a tree early this morning. The birds didn't seem to mind the large quantity of snow, Mr. Ross stated.

between new levies and the farm benefits—a link which destroyed the processing taxes in the supreme court decision.

High AAA officials, however, maintained that processing taxes can be reenacted as general taxes for the benefit of the treasury. They also say they will recommend the levies to the administration. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has consistently defended the taxes as just.

"Reimposition of processing taxes would not only be unwise but undesirable," said Rep. John W. McCormack (D) of Massachusetts, member of the House Ways and Means committee, which must originate all tax bills.

"If it is necessary to enact additional tax legislation, it should be such as not to directly affect the law of supply and demand. The processing tax did directly affect the law of supply and demand by artificially raising the price level in disregard of the production and distribution factors."

"The people of the industrial areas are wholeheartedly in favor of farm legislation, but are opposed to any legislation which is harmful to the workers and industry. It is the processing tax that brought about opposition to the AAA—not the purposes and objectives of the law."

WE ARE ASKED FROM TIME TO TIME in regard to the prices of funerals advertised in the Pittsburgh and other papers. We wish to state and we know whereof we speak that any Funeral Director in New Castle would only be glad to meet any of the prices advertised in the Pittsburgh or any other papers and in fact some of the Funeral Directors' prices have never been as high as some of those advertised, of course we mean for the same quality of goods as are being advertised. There are a lot of Funeral Directors who do not keep this class of merchandise in stock but can easily get it for you on very short notice.

We wonder if it wouldn't be cheaper for the W. P. A. in place of hiring trucks to haul the men out along the public highways and then haul material to build fires to keep them warm, to have one good building in the city where they could all be kept warm at less expense.

Successful business concerns never start outside work in the winter time.

YOUNG BOYS ENJOY A BIRTHDAY PARTY
George Reid, Jr., of Delaware avenue celebrated his sixth birthday Saturday, January 18.
Now a birthday party is an event in every lad's life, but when it is his sixth birthday, and it falls on Saturday when there is no school, and a group of little boy friends drop in to help celebrate, it is a day well remembered.
It was a boys' party from beginning to end. After George, Jr., was showered with an assortment of lovely and useful gifts, the fellows played a variety of games and contests with prizes falling to Reid, Erce, Edward Barry and George Erce.
At 5:30 the doors leading into the dining room were thrown open and shouts of glee came from the group as they viewed the long table lighted by four green tapers, in crystal holders. As each boy looked for his place, he found it marked with an individual miniature decorated cake, holding a pink rose and tiny lighted green candle. These, with ice cream and other goodies a boy likes, made a real feast. Pink and green colors were used throughout the menu and in appointments.
Mrs. Reid was assisted during the afternoon by her mother, Mrs. E. C. McCracken.

FIRE-BOMBS IN THE "NEXT WAR"

THE statement of Professor J. Enrique Zanetti, Columbia University chemist, that fire-bombs making possible the starting of hundreds of fires in large cities within a few minutes constitute one of the greatest perils in the "next war," is a challenge to governments and parliaments throughout the world.

Fire-bombs weigh only about two pounds and bombing planes could carry hundreds of them at a time. Composed of a mixture of iron oxide and magnesium or powdered aluminum, according to the professor, these bombs can be relied upon to start fires wherever there is any inflammable material. A number of them dropped upon a city presumably could work quick havoc.

Whatever defense science might contrive against fire-bombs, the horror which they imply should inspire mankind to resolve that there shall be no "next war." So long as the human race resorts to such means of settling disputes as the use of fire bombs, gas and armament, civilization can not be said to have gained a toehold on earth.

QUIET DINING

In a current dispatch from New York there is the information that a number of night clubs are folding up. In a way, it is significant for it seems that successful operators of small, quiet, genteel restaurants, in bursts of enthusiasm over increasing business, had acquired orchestras, glaring lights, all the accoutrements of a buzzing night club and entered a new course. Too late, they have found that quiet—not music and entertainment—was their chief drawing card.

For a considerable part of the population there is nothing wrong with music and entertainment. It is desired, else there would not be the SRO sign at many places where it is provided. But there are still persons extant who desire quiet, soft-footed service, muted voices, cloaked lights and an atmosphere of dignity along with good food.

THE 1932 DEMOCRATIC PLEDGE

A few days ago in the United States Senate, Senator Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, presented a resolution to study ways to simplify the governmental structure, which he pointed out, was now stretched beyond all reason.

He quoted the following part of the Democratic national platform adopted in 1932, which has been held almost in contempt by the present administration in Washington:

"An immediate and drastic reduction of governmental expenditures by abolishing useless commissions and offices, consolidating departments and bureaus, eliminating extravagance to accomplish a saving of not less than 25 per cent."

To this the senator added, "This condition of top-heavy, overlapping boards and bureaus—bad enough in 1932—is much worse now. In the last three years they have sprung up like mushrooms. We have today the most complicated and costly bureaucracy in history."

MENACE OF CONFUSION

Confusion—political, economic, social—must be regarded as the deadliest foe of sustained recovery. When business men and industrialists face an uncertain future, they inevitably steer clear of the long-term commitments that are an essential part of any march toward better times.

Reports from European capitals indicate unmistakably that confusion is impeding recovery in Germany and Italy, to mention but two outstanding cases. The policies of Il Duce and Herr Hitler are couched in so much cautiousness that it is impossible for men of commerce and manufacture to chart a definite course.

Conversely, England, which has never veered away from traditional moorings, has high hopes for maintenance of the steady advance noticeable during the past few years. British business is definitely enjoying an upward trend warranting the most optimistic conclusions.

Boosted by faith and confidence in normal procedure, American business men and producers will begin to proffer the fruits of progress not only to the consuming public but to wage earners and the rank and file of the unemployed.

FORESTRY ANNIVERSARY

This year marks the sixtieth anniversary of forestry as a function of the federal government, and it is the plan of the American Tree Association to conduct an intensive educational campaign about our national forests and our forest requirements.

It may be surprising to learn that we still have about 100,000,000 acres of untouched forest land, and another 313,000,000 acres covered by forest growth of more or less commercial value.

This may seem to offer a considerable supply of lumber. But just stop a moment and consider our requirements. Four million trees are cut each year for telegraph and telephone poles. Something like 100,000,000 railroad ties and 300,000,000 fence posts are required in this country each year. It takes 50 acres of spruce trees to produce the paper on which just one issue of a big Sunday newspaper is printed.

Our forest resources should be about ten times what they are to meet our national needs for timber. We now import most of our lumber, wood, and pulp from Canada, which constitutes just so much wealth lost to us.

It is very easy to see, therefore, that we have merely made a beginning in a forest planting and conservation policy. It is virtually impossible to overemphasize the importance of our forests and the long-range planning it requires to give us what we really need along this line. We must build up an adequate forest reserve for the future.

And usually you can recognize an only child. It has a thermometer sticking in its mouth.

When people clamor for equality, what they mean is a chance to get even with their betters.

Providing a way that will enable people to make both ends meet is of more importance than splitting an atom.

In an early period a course rebuke to the loquacious was: "Butt on your lip." At that time the zipper still was in the back of the inventor's head.

There's a growing public interest in national affairs, says a news commentator, and we believe it to be true. It is significant that the United States Supreme Court has captured the spotlight from Joe Louis.

Kipling And The King.
The People Are Important.
Washington Knew It.
Surprise For Mr. Capone.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

"THE TUMULT and the shouting dies," Rudyard Kipling is gone. King George, whom Kipling delighted to honor, a quiet king who never conferred any honors upon Kipling is in a bad way, taking oxygen for his heart.

DIFFERENT MEN. Different hearts. Lloyd George, England's greatest prime minister since Elizabeth's death, four years older than King George, has undergone a thousand times the strain and responsibility put upon the king. He is amusing himself studying the Arabs in Morocco, hardly knows that he has a heart ticking away his hours.

RUDYARD KIPLING worshipped fighting men, thought little of women. To a barbarian that could "take it," he addressed his line "You're a better man than I am, Gunga Din." A woman, dealing as best she could with the vice, foolishness and weakness of men, he calls "a rag and a bone and a hank of hair."

Again he says "the female of the species is more deadly than the male." Perhaps he knows now that what little improvement men and civilization have seen is due to that "female of the species."

NO GOOD RESOLUTIONS!
NO, I DIDN'T MAKE any New Year's resolutions.

Why should I? Why should anybody? What did the calendar ever do for me? Why should I, merely because one day has turned into the next, and we're now in 1936 instead of 1935, solemnly resolve to stop doing something I've been doing or start doing something I never did before?

If I didn't have sense enough, strength enough, wisdom enough to do what I should have done before, why load myself with a pledge I may or may not keep? . . . Why resolve on Jan. 1 instead of June 22 or Dec. 31? Why, indeed?

Well, do I think I'm so perfect that I don't need to make good resolutions of change and improvement?

No, no, NO!
Whatever gave you THAT idea? Name your pet weakness and I'll match it with one of mine that's twice as weak. . . . Name a prejudice, name an envy, name a grudge, name a bitterness, name a stupidity—and I'll set one alongside of it that will make you proud of being yourself instead of me. . . . NO, it's not vanity, self love, that makes me shy away from the old-fashioned habit of resolving on New Year's day.

I'm against it because it doesn't work, because nobody I ever knew ever kept any of those piously made resolutions. The only time they do work is when some force within us stirs and grows and awakes and splits the surface of our lives—and demands that we change. When we have suddenly in sorrow or agony seen ourselves clearly, learned in a blinding flash of understanding, that we MUST make ourselves over if we hope, ever again, to live in any comfort with ourselves.

That's the only time to make a resolution that we can possibly keep, that will do us any good. And no calendar is going to bully me into it!

What Noted People Say

SHELTER ISLAND, N. Y. . . . Dr. Charles Lane Poor, astronomer discusses relativity: "I am more than ever convinced the Einstein theory is a mathematical dream."

PHILADELPHIA. . . . Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., urges an awakened public conscience: "What a pity it is taxpayers fail to realize they are in reality stockholders in this great country of ours."

NEW YORK. . . . Clement C. Williams, educator, praises the millionaires: "They have proven themselves socially wiser and more efficient than the government in directing vast accumulations of wealth to social benefit."

"Well," sighed Edith, "I guess there's nothing for us women to do but get married."

A brief silence ensued, then a volcanic eruption: "Well, Mirandy, for the last fifteen years I have taken off my shoes every time I come into this house, but I'll be hanged if I'll go further."

CHARACTER LACKING
Often it is said of a man, "It's a shame he is a failure. He has such a pleasing personality." Of another it may be said, "Too bad he doesn't get along better. He has so much ability."

What is lacking in both types is character. Without personality or ability of course, not even a characterless man can do much harm. His field of operation is too limited. He neither impresses nor attracts people, but merely joins the ranks of the more or less good for nothings.

But a "good personality" projecting itself from a characterless soul, is an evil combination. Of such are charming loafers, entertaining lounge lizards, and unscrupulous exploiters. They smile and flatter their way through life, dodging responsibility, and honest labor because they have discovered an easier way of making a living.

Good Taste

By FRANCINE MARKEL

Dear Miss Markel—Why not write something about the host and hostess who put out their lights and rush upstairs before their departing guests have had time to start the car or at least ride out of the driveway?

LARRY P.
Answer—It is true that such an abrupt drop of the curtain upon a pleasant evening's entertainment may be a bit disconcerting to the guests, who may interpret it as a sign of relief that a too-long visit has at last terminated and that their conversation has proved to be naught but a lullaby producing a deep desire for slumber.

Yes, the thoughtful hosts will certainly give her departing visitors a chance to ride out of sight of the house before turning out her lights and retiring for the night. Thus, she will prevent hurt feelings and the impression that the guests overstayed their welcome.

But, speaking of this moment of departure: Don't be a hostess or host who goes to the other extreme and, often following guests to their cars, speed their parting with screams that drown out the roaring motors and out-gings neighbors.

Cuba Still Seething
Election No Solution
Munitions Facts Not New

Central Press
New York Bureau
235 East 45th St.

By LESLIE EICHEL

Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The Cuban election was not the happy solution it was pretended to be. It is, in fact, aroused additional anti-American sentiment in Cuba.

Miguel M. Gomez won. He is a sugar planter and former associate of Gerardo Machado, who as president was driven from the country. But Gomez won merely because virtually all the liberal elements were suppressed.

It was made illegal for Dr. Grau San Martin to run. Yet he is the man the majority of Cubans evidently have desired. His regime as president, liberal and popular with the people, had to give way when the United States government—or its ambassador—turned against him. Cuba remains under a military dictatorship. Dr. Grau San Martin had "freed" labor. Today it is back where it was. Not only have the liberal political parties been outlawed, but labor unions have been dissolved and their national president, Cesar Villar, was imprisoned.

Jefferson Caffery, U. S. ambassador, is being attacked as sharing a large part of the blame—together with American sugar, banking and utility interests.

PUBLISHED PREVIOUSLY

Much that is being brought out in the U. S. senate munitions investigation:

John Kenneth Turner's "Shall It Be Again?", published in the early twenties; Frank H. Simon's "History of the World War"; the recent "The Road to War" by Walter Millis; and Walter Hines Page's lectures assembled by Burton J. Hedrick.

All those volumes are obtainable in public libraries. We are indebted for the suggestion to Mr. Clark Kinnaid, writer of "The World War Day by Day" newspaper feature.

The private Morgan correspondence is, however, new and of inestimable value—as is some newly revealed correspondence, of President Wilson and Secretary of State Lansing.

WHOSE MONEY?

If the federal government is forced to return processing taxes to processors, whose money is it?

That is a fine point. Haven't the processors already passed on the taxes to the public? Will the companies gain double—and the public lose altogether?

INTERESTING

Here is an interesting revelation, deep down in a statement by John G. Winant, chairman of the U. S. social security board:

"In a very large sense this year will witness the first step of a long-range effort to prevent the recurrence of what America has gone through in the past five years. The unemployment compensation provisions of the Social Security Act are not a cure-all for the economic ills which make depressions possible; they constitute rather a first-line defense against unemployment."

"Suppose the present Social Security Act had been in force in 1922 and all of our states had then adopted unemployment compensation plans comparable to those now in force in the District of Columbia, and in Wisconsin, New Hampshire, California, Oregon and several other states. By 1929 ten billion dollars would have been contributed to the unemployment trust fund and eight billion dollars paid out as benefits to the unemployed during that period. This would have left a reserve of two billion dollars at the outset of the present depression. It is not difficult to visualize the steadying and stimulating effect on American business that would have resulted from the disbursement of this huge fund to those eligible for unemployment compensation."

The isms of America have many names and slogans, but they all lead to the public treasury.

MONDAY, JAN. 20

Notable Nativities—This, Eve of St. Agnes, is popularly regarded as a propitious day for males to be born. Those whose birthday it is include: Josef Hofmann, b. 1876, prodigy who grew up to be one of the greatest pianists. . . . Richard LeGallienne, b. 1866, English poet and father of Actress Eve LeGallienne. . . . Mischa Elman, b. 1891, world famous violinist. . . . Ruth St. Denis, b. 1882, dancer.

Today's Yesterday—Jan. 20, 1265—A nobleman had kidnapped King Henry VIII and issued writs in his name for convening of the first parliament in England. It met on this date, in the hall at Westminster which still survives, and were the first commoners ever given a voice in the government of any western country. Thus our political liberties date from this occasion.

Jan. 20, 1795—Mounted Frenchmen rode over the ice, fought for and captured icebound warships of the Netherlands. In the first and only naval battle ever fought on horseback! (This was in the war of the first coalition on the French revolutionists.)

Jan. 20, 1882—First actual work on the Panama canal was begun by the French, who started work in the middle of the Isthmus! Excavating was begun at Culebra Cut.

SILVER POLICY
Has the American silver buying policy been a success?

No, say Handry & Harman, leading bullion brokers of New York.

They add: "If one desires a record of complete failure to bring about international co-operation in the wide use of silver as a monetary metal it is only necessary to review the happenings of 1935. Demonetization of silver coinage occurred, or was threatened throughout the world, and China and Hongkong, the only important adherents to silver standard, abandoned that standard in favor of man aged currencies."

"In the matter of stabilizing foreign exchange, it is no doubt true that large purchases of silver by the United States, in lieu of other imports from abroad, tended to counteract a rising tendency on the part of the dollar in terms of foreign currencies. But the part played by silver in this connection was merely that of a commodity. Considered as an exchange medium, we question whether even the most rabid proponent of silver for such purpose would argue that stability had been created by the use of a metal whose price went from 55 cents to 81 cents during the first four months of 1935 and down to 49 1/2 cents by the end of the year."

"With regard to world trade, statistics indicate that our commerce with China has declined as a result of the Chinese financial and commodity price situation, occasioned chiefly by silver purchases. Even more important is the fact that the United States buying program has alienated from the country the good will of China, the cultivation of which has been fostered for many years."

State Department Recalls Balfour Memorandum Data

Fearful New International Crisis May Be Developed If Document Is Made Public

(Copyright, 1936, By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Fearful its publication might provoke a new international crisis, the state department today recalled from members of the senate munitions committee all copies of the sensational

Balfour memorandum, revealing the secret "spoils" treaties of the allies in the World War.

The memorandum was delivered to wartime Secretary of State Robert Lansing on May 18, 1917, six weeks after the United States entered the war. It embraced a verbatim copy of a frank round-table discussion in the British imperial war council, concerning the treaties. It described in detail the agreements between Great Britain, France, Russia, Italy and Roumania, for the virtual dismemberment of the central powers in event of victory.

Publication of the memorandum is withheld by the state department because it is regarded as a secret British document.

But the people who fight for a "noble and righteous cause" always expect to get hard cash if it wins.

W.P.A. Employees Aid In Removal Of Snow In City

All outdoor projects of the Works Progress Administration are down today due to the heavy snow. Instead of working on the projects they have, a large group of the workers were transferred to the city streets removing snow under the authority of State Administrator Edward N. Jones.

A group of workers protested to J. Vale Downie, district director today against working on the streets. They argued that if the weather was too inclement for work on the state highway projects it was too inclement for work on the city streets.

Mr. Downie presented Mr. Jones' telegram and said that he was acting under the authority of the telegram. Trucks, road machinery, shovels and men were at work later in the day and the downtown streets are showing the effect of the work.

Today

the illness of King George, a good king who has done his best and done his duty, never making a plaything of his throne or his court.

Kipling wrote and sang about the empire, its far-flung battle lines, and wrote the best poem about the flag of England.

The king can not write or sing, but he has lived his part as head of the empire, faithfully and well.

HERE AT HOME we have Senator Glass defending the memory of his dead friend, Woodrow Wilson, with vehemence and sincerity, rapping his Senate desk with his knuckles until the blood came, denouncing Senator Nye's charge against President Wilson and his Secretary of State, Lansing, of "falsifying" war facts.

SUCH LOYALTY to a friend is admirable. On the other hand, it is desirable to have the facts, regardless of friendships.

If Senator Nye's charges can be sustained the people want to hear them.

It should be remembered that the important thing is the duty of a President or any other official to the people; not the people's duty to the President.

The people remain and are, alone, important; passing figures on the political stage are not important, except as they may be sincere and useful.

WASHINGTON said "the power of the Constitution will always be in the people," and "those that are entrusted with the administration are no more than the creatures of the people, act as it were but for a day, and are amenable for every false step they take."

TODAY when you hear foolish talk about "revolution" and getting rid of the Constitution, a remark made by Washington as he signed the Constitution may be recalled:

"Should the states reject this excellent Constitution, the probability is that an opportunity will never again offer to cancel another in peace—the next will be drawn in blood."

SIR EDWARD COKE said three hundred years ago "a man's house is his castle," somebody else elaborated it, saying the rain might enter that house, but the king could not enter.

This does not apply to the tax collector as Mr. Al Capone discovers in his castle, Alcatraz prison, on a rock in San Francisco's harbor. No prisoner can escape from that prison but the tax collector can enter. One gave Mr. Capone a tax bill of $127,439.79, calculating that Capone as a bootlegger must have manufactured at least 115,854 gallons of liquor. The bill was for $110 a gallon.

IN PRISON in Chicago, Al Capone said to this writer "I don't do any harm, because my business is beer running, not strong stuff, I leave that to New York."

The government is sure there must have been some "hard stuff" distilling combined with the beer brewing and presumably guesses at the number of gallons.

DR. GOEBBELS, Chancellor Hitler's minister of propaganda, expresses Germany's idea clearly: "A people can live without butter, but cannot live without cannon. We could not defend ourselves with butter, but only with cannon and rifles."

And he said truly: "When one does not know how a nation is to be nourished, in the long run, that fact becomes a threat to the whole world."

DR. GOEBBELS complained "we have no colonies and no raw materials," and expressing sympathy with Italy seeking room for surplus population, he admitted a 500,000 increase in Germany's unemployed, said the Allies took away Germany's colonies and do not know what to do with them.

Perhaps England and the League will allow Germany to take back some of her former colonies, particularly those in Africa, bestowed upon her because they contained the greatest number of tse-tse flies. German chemical science might overcome those carriers of sleeping sickness, possibly by exterminating crocodiles, from whose blood the tse-tse fly extracts the sleeping sickness germs.

MUSSOLINI, announcing the killing of 4,000 Ethiopians in one battle, tells the League of Nations that Ethiopians use dum-dum bullets, forbidden by international law, and mutilate live captives and the corpses of soldiers. The Italian ruler says Rome two thousand years ago had a higher development of civilization than the Ethiopians have now, which is not much of a compliment to the days of Cicero, Caesar, Augustus and Marcus Aurelius. However, in these days of air bombs and poison gas, mutilation by barbarous peoples, using old-fashioned knives, can be only amateur work.

May Cut Power Of High Court

Jurisdiction On Congressional Acts May Be Curbed Through Lower Courts

ADMINISTRATION
WOULD BE HAPPY

Central Press
Washington Bureau.
1900 S Street.
By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Congress' constitutional authorities may have hit on a scheme for maneuvering the United States supreme court out of its powers in such cases as NRA and AAA without amending the constitution itself.

The attempt is likely to be made, anyway.
If the thing can be accomplished by a single piece of congress' own legislation it will be vastly more satisfactory to the administration than an amendment must be relied on, an amendment resolution being so hard to get favorably acted on by the lawmakers and so much harder to get ratified by the required number of states that the method may fall altogether and cannot but be very slow work at best.

COURT'S POWER
Assuming for argument's sake, that a more direct plan will work, it will work like this:

The federal supreme court is of constitutional creation and its powers are constitutionally defined, but the lower federal courts are of congressional creation only and congress can dictate to them. The constitution specifically says: "The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one supreme court, and in such inferior courts as the congress may from time to time ordain and establish."

The constitution does not, however, authorize the supreme court to decide all sorts of questions at first hand.

If a case involves a foreign ambassador, minister or consul or if a state is one of the litigants, the supreme bench can consider that case initially. In no other case, no matter how federal in character, has it a voice except as a tribunal of appeal, after all issues have been passed on by the lower courts.

THROUGH LOWER COURT
Then, indeed, the "nine old men" have the last word.
They can affirm or reverse any lower federal court's decision, but they cannot affirm or reverse what no lower court has had a chance to decide.

Congress cannot, without a constitutional amendment, deprive the supreme court of any of its present authority, but it can deprive the lower federal courts of theirs—thus cutting off the supreme court's at its source.

CRIMPING COURTS' POWER

For example:
The processing tax cases started in federal district courts, which held them unconstitutional. The government carried them to federal courts of appeals, which affirmed the district courts. Next the government took its contention to the supreme court, which affirmed the courts of appeals.

The cases having reached the supreme bench, congress could not very well dispute the supreme court's right to decide them finally.

But, had congress thought of it in time, it quite constitutionally could have denied the district and appeals courts' title (these courts being its own creations) to express any opinion, one way or the other. Whereupon the cases couldn't have reached the supreme bench.

But this line of reasoning was stumbled upon rather belatedly to save the New Deal.

A METHOD ANYWAY

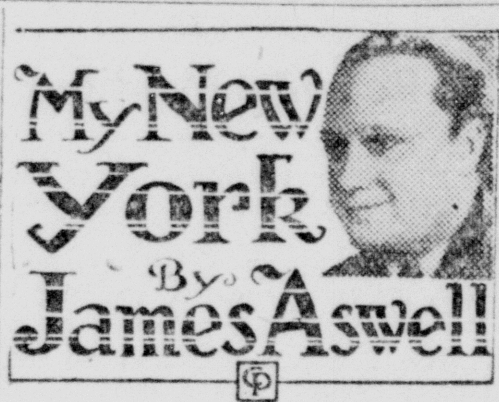

There is a fly in the New Deal's constitutional ointment, at that.

An Iowa or an Oregonian, say, who doesn't like what Secretary Morgenthau or Agricultural Secretary Wallace or some other federal functionary is doing, may not be able to sue for redress in his local federal court, but he can sue in the District of Columbia district court—if he can get service on Morgenthau, Wallace or some satisfactory alternate in the District. And generally he can, if he has the money to put up much of a fight.

The federal supreme court is the District of Columbia's court of appeals.

Thus the District of Columbia litigant, if he has the resources and hangs on, gets before the supreme court anyway.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—"Dear Jim: Miami is very gay and boomish this winter and I wish you could fly down and write about the goings-on here. But I know the spot you are in. I know that you are loyal to your California readers and editors and wouldn't want to offend any of them, just as you are hesitant about extolling the winter high-jinks in California because of the way Florida readers may feel."

"The fact is, however, Miami is full of New York columnists and assorted newspapermen. The lobby of the Miami Biltmore on Saturday night, when the galas are held, reminds me of the Union Hotel in Flemington, N. J., during the Hauptmann trial. Except that many of the boys here are hiding out; they know the reaction of snow-bound Manhattan editors reading columns tapped out by scribes on sun-tanned copy-paper."

"Some of the newspapermen here are date-lining their stuff. A well-known Southern Resort, Jan. 60, Heywood Brown, who practically commutes from Miami, is said to be mentioning his whereabouts only by references to latitude and longitude."

"The perfect paradox and reversal of roles would be the spectacle of Barbara Hutton chasing a crowd of newspapermen with a camera in her hand. It could happen in Miami."

"There are more night clubs on Miami Beach than on 32nd Street in Manhattan. The French Casino is building a vast, modernistic pile to house its fan-dancers and Earl Carroll's gals disport themselves nightly over on Palm Island. Gallagher's used to be a run-of-the-mill hashery until the proprietor built a platform in the center of the room and put a 3-piece orchestra on top. Now it's full of folks at dawn."

"Ira's Supper Club, another one of the hangouts, appeals to one class mob and there's the Frolics and the Club Bagdad for the earthy folks. The Frolics advertises a show 'too hot for Broadway'; if so, Broadway has cooled considerably."

"The trouble with Miami night clubs is that they depended on the gambling in the back rooms to make a profit for so many years that they forgot to bother about any particular quality in entertainment. Now that the gambling is outlawed—so far this year, anyway—by the local politicians the clubs are devoting some thought to food and shows."

"But I know you get enough night clubs back on Frostbite Boulevard. You may be interested to know that a real estate boom is on here again. They don't speak of it as a boom. The salesmen use another line: the mark-down, bargain tack. For instance, if they quote you $10,000 for a few feet of beach property they tell you that it is being sacrificed inasmuch as it sold during the 1926 insanity for no less than $1,000,000—and undoubtedly it did."

"The Warner Brothers, I am told have just bought a huge block of beach property."

"The weather remains a sort of Florida complex as always. The usual headline is 'Bilizard Sweeps North Again'. In order to discover that the weather has been bad in Florida you must read the California papers. And when a brisk spell arrives, or a touch of rain, I am told that the hotels actually have hundreds of guests indignantly refuse to pay their bills, on the ground that they have come for the sun and haven't got enough of it. Doctors have trouble collecting from patients on cloudy days. That's gospel truth."

"I know you are busy, so I'll close. I have to dress now for a party at the Roney-Plaza, where Damon Runyon will be a guest and I want to hear some more low-down on the Hauptmann case. They say he has it all. His new home on Hibiscus Island, by the way, is a pip. I think of you every time I hear a slot machine jackpot fall."

"Sincerely, California."

We'll wager 2 to 1 that you'll like Double-Mellow OLD GOLDS

DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK if it isn't the finest cigarette you ever smoked

LAST OCTOBER we issued a daring challenge to the smokers of the nation. We said, in effect, if the new Double-Mellow Old Golds don't give you a thrill, we'll pay the bill and pay it double.

Never before had such an offer been made on a cigarette. But we made it with our eyes open. The prize crop tobaccos in Double-Mellow Old Golds fully justified this 2 to 1 wager.

For the benefit of those smokers who overlooked this offer, we repeat it again today. Smoke half a pack of Double-Mellow Old Golds. If it isn't the finest smoke you ever tasted... just mail us the remaining cigarettes and the wrapper, at any time before May 1st, 1936, and we'll send you double the price you paid for the full package... plus postage.

On Court House Hill

Motion for a new trial has been made by the defendant in the case of L. G. Nail against Thomas P. Morehead, in which the jury returned a verdict for $4,750 in favor of the plaintiff. The case grew out of an automobile accident at the corner of Highland and Park avenues.

Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard will hold an inquisition on the property of Michael Perchovich, Galbreath avenue, against which a judgment has been obtained before an alderman. The inquisition is for the purpose of determining whether the income from the property over a period of seven years, will liquidate the judgment. In case it will not, other proceedings will be instituted.

Suit is threatened by Mrs. Della Lancaster against Mike Conti, James J. Kuhn and Leon Cooper, super-visors of Mahoning township, whom she accuses of failing to provide her with a way of ingress and egress to her home on what is known as the old Holiday farm. Mrs. Lancaster says that a lane leading to her home has been closed, and that she is unable to get in coal or other supplies. She visited the county commissioners Saturday with her complaint, but was told that she ought to take it up with the township supervisors as it was out of the jurisdiction of the commissioners. Mrs. Lancaster left, saying that she would give the supervisors one more chance and if they don't do something she will see a lawyer and bring suit.

Two prominent citizens of Struthers, O., visited the county commissioners to discuss the proposition of laying out a public highway over the old right of way of the New Castle-Youngstown electric railway from Edenburg to Struthers. It was pointed out that the right of way can be secured for nothing, and that as it has already been graded there would be no damages to pay. The visitors believed that the road could be opened as a WPA project. There is plenty of limestone in the vicinity with which a good road bed could be made. They pointed out that about the only expense it would be to the county would be for resurfacing. The visitors said that the new road would shorten the distance from New Castle to Youngstown by about six miles. The commissioners were not prepared to express their views on the proposition without further study, but told the visitors that they would give the matter consideration. If built, the road would connect up with the West Washington street extension.

Former County Commissioner Tad Shields of New Bedford was a visitor at the county commissioners' office Saturday. Tad was a candidate for county commissioner at the primary but lost out, but defeat didn't sour his disposition, for he greets everybody with the same old smile and hearty handshake. Tad attributes his cheerful disposition to having been a reader of The News for 27 years.

Under the will of the late Alula Flinner of this city, $200 is left in trust to the Lawrence Savings & Trust company for the upkeep of the grave of Mrs. Flinner and her husband, Henry W. Flinner, in Oak Grove cemetery. The balance of the estate is left to Charles Tropp, a nephew, Jessie Gill, a half-sister, whose home is in Chicago, Ill.; Harry W. Birch, a brother, of Washington, Pa., and Harry W. Flinner, a brother-in-law, of this city. Harry W. Birch and Harry Flinner are named as executors.

Two large verdicts secured in automobile damage cases last week are likely to turn the attention of motorists to the value of insurance. A large percentage of motorists already carry insurance, but there is a much larger number who do not. Usually the man who owns property or who is financially responsible does not care to take the risk of operating a car without insurance. No matter how careful a driver he may be, he never knows when he is going to meet a fool. The meeting may be to his disadvantage, in which case his insurance comes in handy. There are a great many people who believe that every motorist ought to be compelled to take out liability insurance. As the law now stands in this state lack of financial standing is no bar to the operation of a motor vehicle, and when that vehicle is involved in an accident there is no way to recover damages.

PRESIDENT IN FOURTH YEAR IN WHITE HOUSE

Inauguration Date Is Changed

Next President To Take Office On January 20 Next Year

ROOSEVELT MAKING CAMPAIGN ALREADY

By GEORGE DUNNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—By virtue of the Norris "lame duck" amendment which henceforth makes January 20 inauguration day, instead of March 4, President Roosevelt today entered the fourth year of the White House occupancy to which he was overwhelmingly elected in 1932.

A candidate for re-election, Mr. Roosevelt hopes to again make the trip up Pennsylvania avenue twelve months from today and be sworn in for another four years as chief executive.

Because this is a campaign year, every action and utterance of the president is being weighed by friend and foe alike for possible political significance. His activities have increased noticeably in the past two months and plans for the future which already have been made public indicate he intends to wage a militant battle for re-election.

Plans Campaign Trip
Even before the Democratic national convention assemblies in Philadelphia to formally renominate him, Mr. Roosevelt will have made a swing among the people which will encompass much of this country's wide territory. Early June will find him in Texas opening the Panhandle State's Centennial Exposition. Speaking stops on the way out already have been arranged in Vincennes, Ind., and in Arkansas. Other engagements designed to present the president to the electorate in person have been arranged for the more immediate future. On February 22, he will speak in the morning in Philadelphia and jump quickly to Boston to make an evening appearance—in both instances entering what is reported at the moment to be politically hostile territory.

Returns From New York
The president returned to the capital last night from a week-end trip to New York which was not without its political implications. Yesterday afternoon he delivered the principal address at the dedication of New York City's new natural history museum as a memorial to Theodore Roosevelt. Several events at that ceremony caused comment.

From a literal reading of the president's speech, political angles had to be interpreted. He confined himself largely to quoting from T. R.'s state papers—but each quotation was easily applicable to present-day problems as viewed by the Roosevelt now in the White House. The excerpts culled from the first Roosevelt's utterances, when placed alongside of recent statements by the president indicated the two men saw eye-to-eye on such issues as fighting "the malefactors of great wealth" and conserving natural resources.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., who spoke as T. R.'s eldest son, quite pointedly ignored President Roosevelt. Governor Lehman and Mayor LaGuardia, as he launched into a brief appreciation which was completely devoid of politics, Col. Roosevelt distinguished only "Mr. chairman and distinguished guests," bowing to the chairman on his left but failing to turn in the direction of the president on his right.

Balance Of W.P.A. In New Quarters

Working over the week end, the office equipment of the balance of the WPA administrative force was moved from the building on South Mill street to the old postoffice on North Mercer street. Today all WPA administrative workers, with the exception of six employed in the workmen's compensation department are housed in the old post-office building. The six will probably be attached to the Lawrence County unit of the WPA in the Greer building.

"Ride with the Five Star Final."

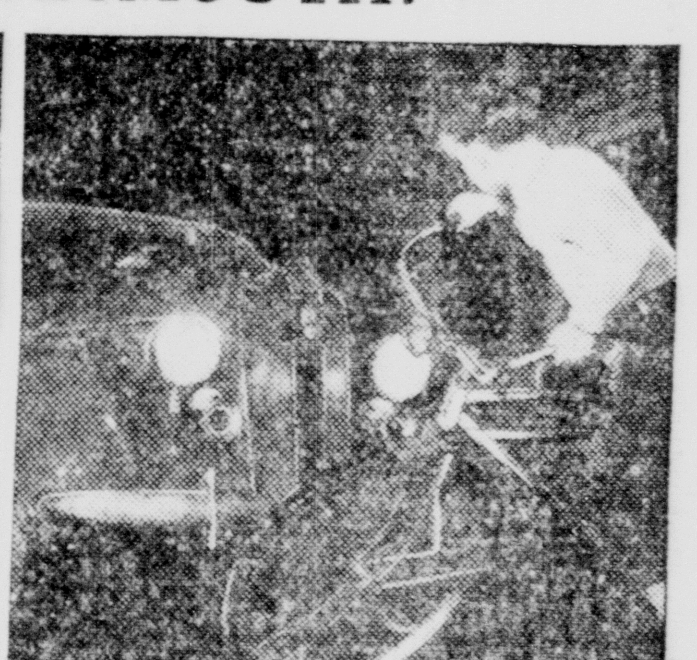

YOU'LL SEE WHY I PICKED THIS 'ALL-STAR' PLYMOUTH!"

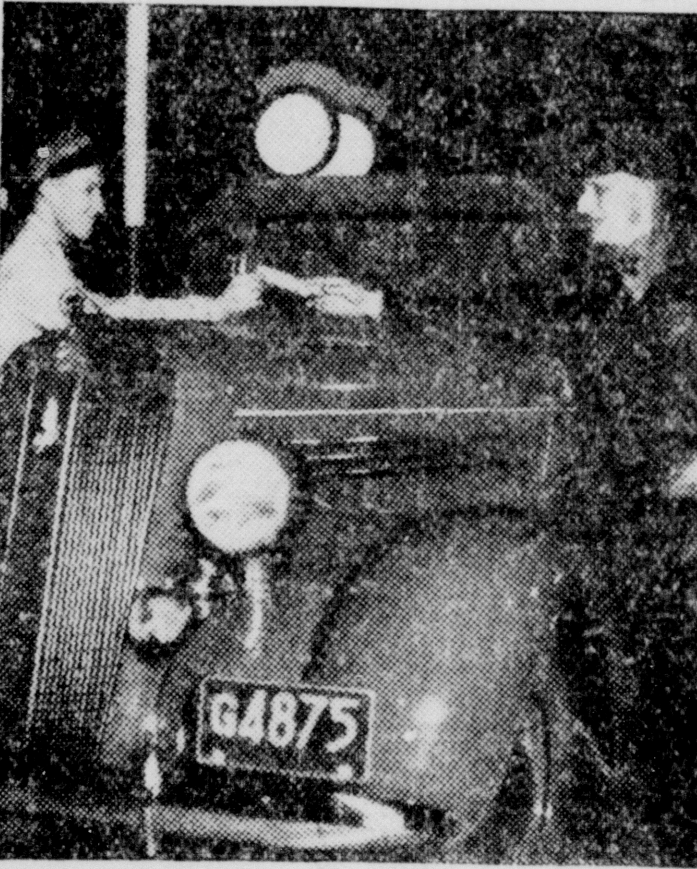

HALF A TON of Philadelphia newspapers...Walter Dombrow loads his big, beautiful Plymouth for the nightly trip of 20 miles...delivering final editions to 30 neighborhoods.

"I NEVER DISAPPOINT THEM. It's no trouble making my rounds in this Plymouth...it never fails me."

"NO CAR FOR ME without 100% hydraulic brakes!" Walter Dombrow has never been in an accident.

"TALK ABOUT ECONOMY! I get 18 miles to the gallon of gas in city driving," says Mr. Dombrow; "22 on the road."

"I'M CERTAINLY SOLD ON PLYMOUTH," declares Walter Dombrow, World War veteran who now drives a 20-mile night route...six nights a week...for a Philadelphia newspaper. He says, "On my job a car has to take a beating...and how this 1936 Plymouth can take it!"

A CERTIFIED INTERVIEW WITH WALTER DOMBROW, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

THIRTY-NEIGHBORHOODS around Philadelphia are expecting their newspapers when Walter Dombrow starts on his nightly route with the final editions. Six nights a week...twenty miles to make...winter, summer...fair weather or storm.

"But I always make it without disappointing anybody...because my Plymouth never fails me. "If you could just ride that route with me some night, carrying up to half a ton of finals, you'd see what a beating my Plymouth is able to take, too!"

Safety is just as important as reliability to Mr. Dombrow...he has never had an accident. "I wouldn't even ride in a car without genuine hydraulic brakes," he says.

Walter Dombrow knows how a Plymouth stands up...his earlier model cost him far less for upkeep or repairs than any other car he has ever driven. "And my new Plymouth," he declares, "is giving me 18 miles to the gallon of gas in city traffic, and 22 miles out on the road. That's real economy...you can take it from me, Plymouth is the most economical car on the market!"

All we can add is this: "Look at All Three"...drive them...compare them on the four most important qualities any car can have: safety, economy, reliability and comfort. Compare them on size...and on beauty, too!"

Ask your Chrysler, Dodge or De Soto dealer to let you drive one of the beautiful 1936 Plymouths. Take your family along...get their judgment, too. Do this before you buy any car, today.

AROUND CITY HALL

Members of the streets depart- ment today were cleaning off the downtown streets so that transpor- tation here would not be slowed up. By removing the snow from the cartway a better traffic movement can be had and removal of snow along curbs prevents slush and a later freeze.

Only 34 cases of contagion were reported during January to the city health bureau, according to a health department report. Dr. W. L. Steen, health officer made his usual examinations of water and Superintendent of garbage collection reported 723 tons having been collected and burned.

League Rejects Committee Plan

(International News Service)
GENEVA, Jan. 20.—The League of Nations committee of thirteen, (the league council minus Italy) today rejected a proposal to appoint an investigating committee to examine the conduct of the Ethiopian war.

The committee also decided it was impossible momentarily to do anything further toward conciliation at present.

Rejection of the proposal for an investigating committee quickly followed receipt of a long note from Ethiopia, renewing demands such a committee proceed immediately to East Africa.

The committee of thirteen refused to consider the Ethiopian request for an investigating committee on grounds it was not qualified to do so and that the demand concerned the league council only. The committee of thirteen then adjourned until tomorrow.

AWAIT MOVE OF JERSEY GOVERNOR

agencies of the state to "clear up" the Lindbergh case. But thus far he has refrained from giving a direct order to either the state police or the attorney general's office, contenting himself with the efforts of a corps of secret investigators working under his personal direction.

When and if the state police get Hoffman's order, they will be placed in a most paradoxical position. They are under the direct command of the governor and must obey him. Yet they are convinced that Bruno Richard Hauptmann alone is guilty of the crime they helped solve, after two and one-half years.

Meantime, it was learned from the same source, the governor has instructed members of his party not to oppose any move to impeach him or to inquire into his intervention in the Hauptmann case when the legislature convenes tonight.

Hoffman likewise refused to deny or affirm this report.

Would Welcome Inquiry

The governor would welcome an inquiry into the spectacular part he has played in the case, climaxed last week by his reprieve which saved Hauptmann from walking to the electric chair, the writer's informant said.

Such an inquiry might result in one of the most sensational "shows" ever staged on the floor of any state legislature; a show which might see Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Dr. John P. "Jasie" Condon, and other noted figures of the world's most engrossing crime mystery in the role of witnesses once more.

In such an investigation the governor might have everything to win and nothing much to lose, it was pointed out.

"If the governor proved nothing in the inquiry—well, he's in hot water already," our informant said. "Besides, it would be next to impossible to impeach him, as he controls both the senate and the assembly."

"And," he continued, "it is obvious that if during the course of such an investigation a new figure should be brought into the case, Hoffman would be famous and could virtually name his own political friends."

Three Prisoners Ask For Parole

Have Been Serving Two Months For Conspiracy In Connection With "Numbers" Cases

Mike Pekoules, Raymond Ferro and John Ross, convicted of conspiracy in connection with the "numbers" cases, and now serving terms of two months each in the county jail, have presented to court petitions for parole.

The three men were fined $100 and costs each, and were sentenced on December 17th. Pekoules claims that his health is bad and that further confinement will seriously endanger it.

Ferro says that his family is on relief and that if he gets out, he can be of great assistance. Ross also states that his family is on relief and needs his assistance.

According to Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard, all three men have conducted themselves properly since being placed in the county jail.

Judge James A. Chambers directed that District Attorney Mont L. Alley be given notice of the applications for parole. A hearing will be held later.

ALL-ROYAL COUNCIL RULES BRITISH EMPIRE

council, it was understood, are empowered to act for the whole.

It was authoritatively declared, however, that composition of the council had no special significance, since the counselors naturally will have the advice of the prime minister and cabinet members, who will be consulted in everything.

The council was created as the king, under the watchful eyes of Lord Dawson of Penn, his personal physician, penned a shaky, half-scribbled "George R. I." on a document drawn up a few moments before by the privy council, which met in a sitting room adjoining the sick chamber.

Lord Dawson stood by to see that too great a strain was not placed upon the ruler, whose condition remained grave.

Morning Bulletin

A bulletin issued this morning said:

"The king has had a more restful night."

"There is no substantial change to record in his majesty's condition."

It was believed he would reach a crisis tonight or tomorrow. There was no doubt he was very weak, breathing difficulties putting a great strain upon his heart.

After signing the momentous document, King George fell back breathing heavily from even this simple effort, and then relaxed as a man fighting a battle for life, relieved of his official responsibilities.

Immediately after this ordeal the doors of the sick room were closed, and oxygen was administered by a portable apparatus kept in one corner of the room.

Contrary to some reports, an oxygen tent is not being used. The oxygen is sprayed into the room periodically or at special times when his majesty's respiration is accelerated.

International News Service's informant described the method as "just like giving the king a breath of sea-shore air."

His majesty, it was reliably learned, has not talked to anyone, not excluding the queen, since his condition became serious. Doctors are unwilling to risk increasing his weakness by talk—even that of his solicited loved ones.

The king's only act since his illness was the signing of today's document, it was learned.

The royal family has been taking turns remaining in an adjoining sitting room, with the door leading to the sick room kept closed in fear of lowering the temperature.

FIRST MEMORIAL

FOR TROOP TAKES PLACE ON SUNDAY

& Q. M. Ralph M. Campbell. These officers and 49 enlisted men constituted the original roll.

"When the World War broke out this organization was ready for service, and on June 24, 1916, a troop consisting of 26 commissioned and non-commissioned officers and 69 enlisted men left New Castle for service on the Mexican border.

On Sept. 11, 1917 a troop of 102 officers and men left for Camp Hancock, Ga.

This organization was afterwards broken up, 96 men were overseas, 3 were discharged for disability and 3 were assigned to service in the U. S.

"After the war the troop was again reorganized. Up to that time there had been more than 400 men on the rolls and they had taken part in 15 campaigns. On Aug. 27, 1920 the troop was mustered in by Lt. Lee Horner as Capt., John B. Brettell, as First Lt., Wm. Eros as Second Lt. and T. G. Brettell as First Sergeant.

"On April 1, 1929, the troop came to its present form and organization, as Troop 'F' 103rd Cavalry Penna. National Guard. In Feb. 1935, Harvey G. Bintrif resigned as Capt. and Lt. George F. Mitchell was advanced to the command of the troop. Lt. Mitchell enlisted on May 25, 1927, and within a month was promoted to corporal. A year later he won his sergeant's stripes. He rose to the rank of second Lt. on June 5, 1930, and to first Lt. and second in command on Dec. 1, 1931."

Roll Call of Dead

After this historical sketch, roll call of the dead was read, as follows:

Major Joseph V. Cunningham, Major Alan W. Urmon, Captain Archie B. Graham, Corporal Edward Keelm, Horse Shoer Howard L. Rodgers, Privates John T. Bruno, R. J. Custer, William H. Craig, Melvin Fairweather, John J. Hays, Frank Reep, Leon L. Allen, James Rogan, Daniel E. Ashton, Claude B. Kahle.

During the roll call the troop stood at attention and at its conclusion taps were sounded from the rear balcony.

Prior to the sermon Mrs. Paul Weller sang Rudyard Kipling's "Recessional". The sermon subject was "The Forgotten Worthies," and the text was the eleventh chapter of the book of Hebrews.

RALPH CAMPBELL TAKEN BY DEATH

deputy he was elected to the position himself and served many terms as prothonotary and clerk of courts. Those years he was not the official he was the deputy. On January 6, 1936 he completed three successive terms as prothonotary and clerk of courts and had been deputy under many others. The present prothonotary John A. Edgar named Mr. Campbell as one of his deputies when he took the oath on January 6.

Mr. Campbell was born in New Castle on August 16, 1867, the son of David I. and Belinda Campbell. Denied the privilege of being a soldier himself he lent his time and efforts to every endeavor that had for its purpose the honoring of ex-service interests or the honoring of ex-service debt. He was a figure in the Roundhead association, an organization originally composed of veterans of the 100th Pennsylvania Infantry but in late years composed of descendants and friends of the veterans of the famous Civil war regiment.

Since the organization of the O. C. L. Jackson camp, 50th of Veterans he was active in its affairs. During the World War he was engaged in practically every war work venture and since the war has been a friend to the ex-service men both as a citizen and an official. In church circles he was active in the First Methodist Episcopal church and for many years was a lay delegate to the conference of the church. He served for many years as financial secretary and a trustee of the church also.

Fraternal Affiliations

Fraternal he was affiliated with a number of organizations. He was a member of the Lodge of the Craft No. 433, Free and Accepted Masons and of all the bodies of the Valley of New Castle, New Castle Consistory. He was also a member of the Syria Shrine, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. He was a past exalted ruler of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, No. 69, members of the New Castle Kiwanis club, the New Castle Field Club, the Prothonotary's association of Pennsylvania and the Old Timer's association. When Troop F, 1st Pennsylvania Cavalry was organized in 1904 he was a member and an officer and served with the troop for a number of years.

He was married in 1891 to Miss Eva Robinson who preceded him in death in 1929. As a citizen and as an official he occupied an outstanding position in the community. His remarkable tenure of office was a tribute to his personal following and his wide circle of friends. While he was a member of the Republican party and elected as such, he was never opposed except in a nominal fashion by the opposition parties. Thousands of naturalized citizens of this county remember him for his courtesy and friendly assistance in their quest for citizenship, while the attorneys of the county will remember him for his remarkable knowledge of procedure through his office.

He is survived by his mother Mrs. Belinda Campbell, of New Castle, two brothers, Joseph of New Castle and John of Chicago, Ill., a sister-in-law Mrs. Gertrude E. Canby who made her home with Mr. Campbell, a nephew Dr. J. Edward Canby of Great Barrington, Massachusetts, and two grand nieces.

Funeral services will be held from the First Methodist Episcopal church Wednesday afternoon, January 22 at two o'clock. From twelve noon until the time of service the body will lie in state in the church where friends can view it.

WESTWOOD, ON WITNESS STAND DENIES KILLING

ly cognizant of the seriousness of the charge against him as he assumed the witness stand.

The McKees Rocks justice of the peace took the witness stand after Judge William H. McNaugher denied a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal. The jurist ruled enough incriminating testimony had been presented by the Commonwealth to warrant placing the case in the hands of the jury of five women and seven men.

Tells of Death Night

Westwood told how, on the night of his wife's death, he met his constable, Tim Drexler, and how, accompanied by Catherine Cole, another girl friend, they went to the roadhouse for a few drinks and a brief dance.

Westwood denied that he had left the roadhouse at any time during the evening.

He told of taking his wife and three children for an automobile ride on the fatal July 10 and emphasized that when he kissed them all when he left them downtown. This was in answer to testimony that the man seen running from the murder scene when the death shots were fired. Cohen asserted that on July 16 Mrs. Sehah had not identified the man in the alley behind the Westwood home, but that after wards totaling $3,500 had been offered, she changed her story.

IN PLAIN SIGHT

Jones and his wife arrived at the seaside boarding house and were met by the landlady, who showed them to their room.

"But," said Jones, gazing vacantly around, "you advertised combination bedroom and sitting room."

"That's right," said the landlady. "This is it." Jones looked puzzled.

"Well," he said finally, "I can see the bed, but where is the sitting room?"

"On the bed," the landlady replied.

Case Of Anna Olaz Against Samuel Ross Is Taken Up For Trial

The case of Anna Olaz, 17, by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Olaz against Samuel Ross, was taken up for trial before Judge James A. Chambers at court this morning. Titans Wallop Bethany 51-21

Bennett Leads Attack With 12 Points At Bethany Saturday Night

TITANS SET UP STRONG DEFENSE

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Jan. 20.—Westminster Titans defeated the Bisons at Bethany Saturday night, when they completely routed the West Virginia cagers 51 to 21.

When the Titan varsity left the floor at the end of the first period, the score stood Westminster 31, Bethany 4. Not until Coach Lawther's cagers had dropped eight field goals for 16 points through the hoop did the Bethany men get their hands on the ball.

Perfect Offense

Never this season have the Titans played basketball as perfect as the entire first period of the game. As Backus took the tip-off with regularity, Krivosh and Hunneke leaped high in the pivot zone to retrieve it, and then with deadening regularity the Titans penetrated the Bison defense to score. When no opening through the Bethany defense appeared, Krivosh and Hunneke arched high to hit the basket from the center zone.

Bennett had an offnight, according to the Bennett tradition of 15 points or better per night, and came off the floor with only 12 points, five field goals and 2 free throws. The Titan one-man scoring machine was a little tired from a hard evening at Waynesburg the night before when he led the Titans to a victory with 22 points for himself.

Backus Scores

Even Backus who usually contents himself to feed the ball into the opposition's defense zone, tried his luck at basket-getting and connected with 3 goals from the floor. He took his first-string men off the floor at the half with a safe lead, he left them in the five minutes in the second period and pulled them with a work-out. Bethany went to work on the Titan seconds, but 13 while they could do to score 14 points.

Willits-Grubb Star

Lawther had regarded the Bethany floor as a jinx for his team because of last year's defeat. A few nights previous, Bethany had tripped up Waynesburg on the Bethany floor, because the smallness of the visiting team. The Titans, however, made themselves quite at home and made it look to an over-flow home crowd that it was the Bisons who were visitors and not the New Wilmington quintet.

Grubb, reserve forward from Youngstown, played well for the seconds, handling the ball well and scoring five points during his short stay.

Willits, Titan trick-basket tosser, acted followed close on the heels of Bennett in the scoring with 4 field tosses and a free toss for 9 points.

Meet Pitt Next

After a four day rest, the Titans meet their hardest game of the season against Pitt on the Panther floor Wednesday night. Although the Titans, with victories against Geneva, Slippery Rock, Waynesburg, and Bethany, during the past 10 days are playing at their peak, whether they can retain the pace will wait until the Pitt game is proof. Not since 1907, in three games with Pitt, have the Titans taken the winning end.

THEN THE FUN BEGAN

He pulled up at the Hotel Colossus with a whirl of brakes. The attendant was beside the car in an instant.

"Good morning, sir," he said ingratiatingly. "Much luggage, sir?"

"Three bags," replied the young man, climbing out.

Three short blasts on a whistle brought three bell boys racing through the revolving doors and the luggage was solemnly carried in.

The attendant piloted the arrival in the door, where the head porter was bowing abjectly.

"This way, sir," Scurrying footmen paused respectfully to allow the guest an unimpeded passage to the reception office.

"Name, please." "Stubbs—Timothy Stubbs." "Care for a room, Mr. Stubbs?" Tim Stubbs scratched his head.

"I'd like one, miss, but do you think it'll be all right. You see, I'm the new waiter."

Gaston Post Is In Membership Race Of Legion

Stand Twelfth In Percentage Of Gain Among Posts Of Pennsylvania

LEAD DISTRICT BY BIG MARGIN

Perry S. Gaston Post, American Legion, not only led their district and class in membership honors, at the annual roundup conducted at Harrisburg, Saturday, but stand twelfth among all the posts in the state in percentage of gain, an enviable distinction, following as it does the splendid membership gain of last year, and as a result, the post will stand out among the leading American Legion posts of Pennsylvania before the year is over.

Judge W. Walter Braham, Guy J. Wadlinger, Alderman James C. Brice, Graves Registrar Tom Edmunds and Percy Howell, represented the Perry S. Gaston Post at the roundup in Harrisburg, and presented State Commander Jack McDade, of Scranton, with 361 memberships, an increase of fourteen over last year's membership, and a great increase over the membership at roundup time last year.

Gaston post's membership is almost one-fourth of the membership of the entire district, which includes Beaver and Butler counties, the figures showed.

The splendid gain by the New Castle post was reflected in the membership gain of the entire state, which is now 7,000 ahead of the entire membership of last year. Further gain is expected to be made by the post before the year is over.

In addition to delivering the membership cards of the post, the committee also took with them 129 cards from the New Castle Camp of the Sons of the American Legion, which places them in a high position among the Sons of the Legion camps of the state.

Committee Has Conference With City Council

City affairs committee of the Progressive Workers association conferred informally with council at city hall today relative to projects. They stated that the members of the organization would like the city to sponsor projects which they also would like the WPA to approve so that improvements of a permanent nature could be put through and the members who toiled could consider it as useful labor.

Specifically one pointed out the snow shovelling situation today. He said that instead of men being drawn from the other projects, such a project should be itself approved and put through.

The men said too, that in some instances they regarded that they had been engaged on projects which they did not believe permanent and that sometimes the public believes the WPA workers do not want to do things right. They said they would only be too glad to do things right but had to do what their superiors instructed them to do. They spoke in favor of having men in charge of projects who really understand the work.

The committee which conferred with council consisted of Chairman C. J. Wise, S. J. Walker, Ralph Calville, Tony Mike, R. E. Pettit and V. V. Livermore.
